

FLIP THE BIRD

A David Floyd Nesenoff Film

A Visual Personal Journey That Exposes Hate Across America

Rabbi David Nesenoff, after exposing Helen Thomas' infamous words on the White House lawn, continues his road trip.

Award-winning filmmaker, David Floyd Nesenoff journeys across the United States and uncovers what people have to say about their fellow human beings. From the lady in the Memphis diner booth to the guy in front of the Columbine gas station, David gets his camera up close and personal.

Before you know it, and before they know it, deep down thoughts are flowing from mouths and spewing out a mainstream of American society. Small towns and big cities are filled with opinions and rooted in ideology that is coarse and at times vulgar and anti-social. Citizens along the way are also revealed to be organic to goodness and kindness.

FLIP THE BIRD displays an America that clearly knows how to hate, offend and hurt...
...and yet also is endearing, hopeful and full of love.
